DETAILED ACTION

Status of Claims

1. This action is in response to the application filed on 29 November 2001.
2. Claims 1-18 have been examined.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hunter et al., (US 6,298,327 B1).

Examiner's Note: The Examiner has pointed out particular references contained in the prior art of record within the body of this action for the convenience of the Applicant. Although the specified citations are representative of the teachings in the art and are applied to the specific limitations within the individual claim, other passages and figures may apply. Applicant, in preparing the response, should consider fully the entire reference as potentially teaching all or part of the claimed invention, as well as the context of the passage as taught by the prior art or disclosed by the Examiner.

Claims 1-18:

Hunter discloses, "A computer-implemented expert support system for authoring invention disclosures...comprises at least a computer..." (see at least the abstract and other relevant text). Hunter clearly discloses the input, output, display, printing, control, memory, and communication functions as claimed by the Applicant. Moreover, any computer in use at the time of the invention employing rudimentary software available at the time of conception would be capable of completing the tasks as described in the claim limitations. In addition, one of ordinary skill in the art would concede that a computer system as described by Hunter would be capable of communicating with the patent databases to update the status of the pending application.
